Maryland	We haven't utilized Clariti software. In case anyone is interested, we currently utilize NIC for the front-end of our business registration systems and front- and back-end of our UCC systems. We're also issuing a competitive bid procurement in the coming months to move our Charter back-end system from the mainframe to the cloud, and to convert from cobol to a more modern programming language. We plan on issuing the initial award to multiple vendors to analyze our code and perform a scope of work, and then will pick one of those vendors to complete the entire project.
